

ADDITIONAL EUROPEAN INTELLIGENCE.

Splendid Banquet to the American Consul at Southampton.

SPEECHES OF AMERICAN NAVAL OFFICERS.

The World's Fair, and the American Contributions and Contributors.

The Fears in England of a Political Conspiracy against the Continental Powers.

OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

Ac. &c., &c.

Our London Correspondence.

STATE OF EUROPE.

LONDON, April 4, 1851.

Second Reading of Locke-King's Bill Rejected.

The Army Estimates—First Reading of the Jewish Disabilities Bill—Lord Torrington on Ceylon—Great Political Demonstration in Honor of Lord Stanley—Mordant Intelligence—The Continent—Death of Parsons—Opera, &c., &c., &c.

Since the second reading of the Ecclesiastical Titles Assumption bill, which may be regarded as the conclusion of the second act of Lord John Russell's political drama, Parliament has been busy enough. Lord John does not purpose going into committee on his bill till May, and many are of the opinion that it will not come before the Lords. This, however, is a bold assertion, in the face of the great majority in the Commons in favor of the second reading.

The second reading of Locke-King's motion for the extension of the franchise, the first reading of which was in no small measure conducive to the recent ministerial crisis, has been rejected by a majority of 216, consequently the bill is lost.

The army estimates, notwithstanding the opposition of the liberal members, are being gradually voted.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has announced his intention of bringing forward his report on the budget to-night.

Last night Lord John Russell moved that the House of Commons should go into committee to consider the admission of Jews into Parliament.

His motion was adopted by a majority of 68, and the bill "that that the House should go into committee, take into consideration next session of Parliament, the oath of abjuration, with a view to the relief of her Majesty's subjects professing the Jewish religion," was read the first time.

The "Jewish Disabilities" bill, which was introduced by Lord Stanley, is very important, as it implies that resolution was passed on the 5th of August, last session. The substance of Lord John's views may be stated as follows:—

In religious questions, to be disqualification or not, the enjoyment of civil and political rights.

Sir Robert Inglis, Newgate, and party, strongly opposed the reading.

In the House of Lords, Lord Torrington entered into a detailed justification of his action when Governor of Ceylon. He shuttled through it as well as he could; but he has still to go through the ordeal of the House of Commons, where he will not meet with so much indulgence. Lord Grey having already been levelled by the Duke of Wellington, the old Duke stated that martial was the will of the general, and, therefore, no law at all. He thought that every country should be governed in accordance with its own national laws.

But the great event of the week has been the political demonstration in honor of Lord Stanley, of which you will find a full report in the papers.

Lord Stanley's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Lyndhurst's speech is very important, as it is considered a great length into the leading questions of the day. The protectionist journals are on their high horse at the honors paid to their leader.

Believe me, I may say on good authority, that the government has been informed that some sort of a conspiracy is on foot in London, the nature of which I have not yet ascertained, in connection with the English chartists, and the foreigners who have arrived with the Exhibition.

A large body of men, I was informed, was expected from the United States. However this may be, the government is on the qui vive. This explains Lord Stanley's speech, and the vigilance of the police.

Americans in England.

GRAND BANQUET TO J. R. CROSEY, ESQ., U. S. CONSUL.

A superb public banquet was given on Wednesday evening, March 28th, to Joseph Rodney Crosey, Esq., United States Consul at Southampton.

and his guests, the Mayor and Corporation, and the gentlemen of the port, in acknowledgement of the great services rendered to the trade of Southampton by that gentleman in the discharge of his consular duties.

The dinner took place, with very tastefully laid out, the American and British flags being blended at the lower end of the room.

At seven o'clock the Mayor of Southampton (R. Anderton, Esq.), supported on his right by J. R. Crosey, Esq. (the honored guest), B. M. Wilcox, Esq., M. P.,—Hornby, Esq., and C. Brouley, Esq.; and on his left by Captain Sands (commander of the United States frigate, the "Lawrence"), Sir A. E. Cockburn, M. P. (her Majesty's Solicitor-General), Mr. Alderman Lashley, Capt. Mangles, and Mr. Alderman Brooks. The Town Clerk (C. E. Deacon, Esq.) and Mr. Sheriff Payne ably discharged the duties of the vice-presidents.

The officers of the St. Lawrence had been invited to the banquet, and the following is a list of those present:—Captains Sands, Lieutenants Boggs, Avery, and Duar; Lieutenant Caldwell, of the Marines; Midshipmen Erben, Sproun, and Breese; and the general company included about sixty gentlemen.

The cloths having been cleared, the Mayor gave the health of her Majesty the Queen—a toast drunk with enthusiastic applause, the band playing the "National Anthem," and the whole company joining in the chorus.

Mr. Mayor next gave the health of "Prince Albert, Albert Prince of Wales, and the rest of the United States,"—a toast which was received with great cheering.

Band—"Hail Columbia!"

The Mayor said he had next the pleasing duty of proposing the health of her Majesty the Queen.

He then said, "I now have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.

Sir A. E. COCKBURN rose, amid loud applause, to respond to the toast. He accepted the honor which had just been conferred on him, and whatever might be the result of his getting up, he was glad that they were still going up and not down (laughter and cheers). He could not expect, in a mixed assembly like that now surrounding him, of gentlemen and ladies, to be the only one to get up together for a political purpose, but to do honor to one who so well deserved it, and to the country of which he was so distinguished an ornament (cheers)—to express to him the kind feeling they entertained for him, and to show their respect for his high position, he said, that all would approve of her Majesty's present government. But there were certain matters identified with that government in which he apprehended, that the country, and the whole world, was one great principle identified with that government which he fully believed, they would all approve of. He then said, "I have the honor to call back again to power, what he hoped, to their best for the people. The toast was drunk with applause. The band played the air—'Such a getting up stairs'—and the whole company joined in the chorus, which preceded it, excited much laughter.